Mayfair School

Mayfair Elementary School is named for an area of Fresno which includes homes and businesses which developers called "Mayfair." It is located at 3305 East Home and was one of the first schools built after World War II with funds derived from the 1945 bond issue. There is a shopping center carrying the same name immediately across McKinley Avenue from the campus. It serves K-6 children in the area surrounding the school. There were serious problems associated with completing this structure because of shortages of needed materials immediately following World War II.
